

ABSTRACT

A method for selling a product which allows a customer to comparison search for, and obtain as a part of a purchase transaction, the competitive terms for a product following product acquisition. The method includes conveying the product to the customer prior to at least one transaction term of the sale being finalized, determining a
5 final value of the transaction term, and completing the sale using the final value of the transaction term as a term of the sale.

0949041-092982
556260-TH060460